PREFACE.

The earlier part of the following record was printed in a very brief manner in the History of Windsor, Conn. in 1859 for which work it was compiled by my father. It was reprinted without material change in the New England Genealogical Register for July 1880 and also in the Loomis Genealogy in 1880. The only matter which has ever appeared in print not found in the History of Windsor so far as I can ascertain, is a record of the descendants of Alvin Munsell in the Strong Genealogy in 1871 ; and a few paragraphs in the histories of the towns of Northfield and Torrington.

I have received much assistance from Levi W. Munsell of Amesville Ohio, Rev. John H. Munsell of Schenectady, Eugene Munsell of New York, Orson Munsell of Des Moines and William W. Munsell of Johnstown, N. Y.

I have also to thank Laura B. Munsell of Louisville, G. C. Munsell of Amherst, Mrs. Barker of Worcester, Mrs. Daniell of Milwaukee and many others.

The above coat of arms is taken from the article on the History of the Munsell Family contributed to the History of Windsor, Conn. in 1859 by my father, where it is accompanied by the following words :

We give the device of one of the English families, by way of illustration, although, unable to establish any connection with the English families, the emigrant ancestor being unknown, no claim is put in for an escutcheon. This will probably be a novelty to the descendants here ; and the technical description below exhibits all the difference that exists in the arms of the branches, as far as we have been able to discover.

Arms.—Arg., a chevron between three Maunches, sable.

Crests.—1st. On a chapeau, gu., turned up erm., a falcon rising. ppr.

Mottoes.—Quod vult valde vult ; and, Honorantes me honorabo.

I have in my possession a coat of arms printed from a steel plate which is very elaborate and said to be the arms of Dorothy Maunsell. It appears to be about fifty years old but may be over one hundred.

INTRODUCTION.

In the before mentioned article on the family in the History of Windsor appeared the following remarks :

The first immigrants of this name located in the eastern part of Connecticut ; but soon separated, and no communication having been kept up between them, the time of their coming from England is not well settled, and their personal history is only to be gathered from Town Records and tombstones. Early in the last century Jacob Munsell, one of their descendants, came to East Windsor, and is the progenitor of the families which have ever since been known in the towns and parishes embraced in Ancient Windsor, and whose posterity is now widely scattered over the United States. The orthography of the name is various upon the records and tombstones, but is now written Munsell by most of the families in America. Notwithstanding the diversity of orthography in England, the family history as well as the escutcheons of the different branches, show that they are all of one lineage, originating in Sir Phillip de Maunsell, who came from Normandy, one of the companions of William the Conqueror, and on whom was bestowed the manor of Oxwiche in Glamorganshire. His grandson, Sir John Maunsell, was constituted lord chief justice of England in the time of Henry III ; his eldest son, Sir Thomas, knight banneret, fell in the Barons' wars, at Northampton, in the 48th Henry III, and was succeeded by his son Henry, who was the ancestor of the extinct Lords Mansel, and baronets of Margram. This family omitted the u in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and in 1711, dropped the second l. A branch of the family emigrated from the neighborhood of Frome in England, and settled in Ireland early in the reign of Charles I, and is now known as Monsell of Tervoe. The name is written Maunsell, Mansell, Monsell, Monsall, Munsill, Mansel, Moncil, Munsel, Muncil. Descendants of other branches than this of Windsor are frequently met with.

In addition to the above information I find that the name is probably derived from the French word Maunche, a sleeve. On the coat of arms here given appear three sleeves. The spelling originally was, probably Monsall, a dale in Derbyshire England, or a person originally from Mansle in France.

There was a tradition in the family that two or three brothers came from England to this country between 1600 and 1700, and settled in New England, somewhere near Connecticut or Rhode Island.

It is in Hotten's List of Emigrants to America from 1600 to 1700 published in 1874, that on July 21st 1679 Robert Mansell sailed on the ship "Richard and Mary" for New England.

It is in Neill's Virginia Company of London published in 1869 that on March 13th 1621 there was a Robert Mansell in Virginia. Whether he was any relation to the former Robert I have no means of ascertaining.

It is in the New England Genealogical Register for 1883 that in 1675 a Jno. Munsell of Charlestowne Massachusetts was taken prisoner in King Phillip's Indian War in New England at Dedham Massachusetts and that he was in the same war in July 1676.

Between 1630 and 1644 Wo (burn) Monsall resided at or near Boston Massachusetts.

1 THOMAS MUNSELL<sup>1</sup> was born about 1650.

It is probable that he came from England to New London Connecticut about 1680. In 1681 his name first occurs on record at New London Connecticut. In 1683 he resided on the Great Neck at that place.

Memorial to Connecticut Legislature 1778.

“To the Hon. the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, to be holden in Hartford by adjournment on the 2d Thursday of January instant, the Memorial of Elisha Munsell of E. Windsor of the County of Hartford humbly showeth, that his son Joel Munsell of sd. E. Windsor was sometime in the month of August, according to the order of the Gov. and Commander in Chief of this state, detached & ordered into the public service in the Northern department under the command of Capt. Zebulon Bedwell of E. Windsor, & that his sd. son joyned the Company under sd. Capt's. Command & accompayed him to the head quarters of the Army then under the Command of General Gates, and never failed of doing his duty during the whole of that Campaign after he joyned the army, & was acting and engaged in every battle fought then & continued with the army till, by the Blessing of God, they completed that most glorious conquest over the enemies of this and the United States, in health and After his dismissal he returned home so, to all appearance, but in about 2 days begun to complain, and in about a week after his return was broke out with the small pox, which he must have taken when he was on the public service or most probably on his return through Albany—of which unhappily he died in about 18 days, and your memorialist begs leave to observe that it was not only a very great exercise to him * * * * * but they were put to great (for nurses) Doctering and suitable accommodation for his son while he lived, and said son but lately come of age & has left nothing but his wages to defray the expenses; & that your Memorialist is not a rich man, and poorly able to support his family in health, & noways able to pay what he was by the bowels of a father and the bonds of humanity obliged to engage for his son in his wretched and suffering condition, and your memorialist most humbly prays that your honor would take his case into your wise & compassionate consideration, & since all this has come upon him by his sons being in the public service, you would grant him relief as far as in your great wisdom & goodness you shall judge just and reasonable, & your Memorialist as in duty bound will ever pray—”

“ELISHA MUNSELL.”

JACOB MUNSELL<sup>3</sup>.

At the time of the Revolution, Jacob Munsell was in the prime of life, and a thrifty farmer, residing in East Windsor. The requisitions of the army called into use every team that could be procured, and very high prices were paid for that service, especially after the communication with Boston harbor was interrupted by the British fleet. He therefore frequently undertook the transportation of provisions to the army lying in the neighborhood of Boston. On one occasion while thus employed, having arrived within a few miles of the camp at Cambridge, with a heavy load drawn by an ox team, in a part of the road which was particularly rough, and where the traveled path was narrow, he met two carriages, in each of which was an American general officer. The officer in the forward carriage, when near to Munsell, put his head out at the window, and called to him in an authoritative tone, "Damn you, get out of the path." Munsell immediately retorted, "Damn you, I wont get out of the path; get out yourself." After some vain attempts to prevail on him to turn out, the officer's carriage turned out, and Munsell kept the path. The other carriage immediately came up, having been within hearing distance of what had passed; and the officer within it put his head out at the window, and said to Munsell, "My friend, the road is bad, and it is difficult for me to turn out; will you be so good as to turn out and let me pass." "With all my heart, sir," said Munsell, "but I wont be damned out of the path by any man." This last officer was Gen. Washington. The writer of this anecdote, having heard the affair related at the time, enquired of Munsell soon after the close of the war, as to the truth of it, and was told that it was exactly true.—From History of Windsor.

HEZEKIAH MUNSELL<sup>4</sup>.

Hezekiah Munsell, at the time of his death was the oldest male inhabitant of East Windsor. There were many things so remarkable in his life and character, that several persons visited him to gather the particulars of his personal history, and the facts which they elicited were published in the Connecticut Courant. He was tall and erect, and used frequently, after the age of seventy-five, to compete with young men in the field. He had an instinctive aversion to rum and tobacco; such was his antipathy to cider and vinegar that they were never placed on his side of the table, although the former was the common beverage of New England, and used on every farmer's table. His memory was very tenacious, and he retained his faculties in a remarkable degree till within a week of his death. In the war of the Revolution he was out in four campaigns, and gave an account of himself which was printed in the History of Windsor filling three pages.

LEVI MUNSELL<sup>4</sup>.

“In the Spring of 1785, Congress ordered a Regiment of 700 men raised from N. Y. N. J. Penn. & Conn. I enlisted the 1st day of June 1785 under Left. Kingsbury Gen. Harmer of Penn. was in command. Our Co. formed at West Point. The Regt. marched to the Ohio at Pittsburgh in detachments. Two Cos. were sent to the falls of Ohio to erect Ft. Finney on the south side. Maj. Doughty & Capt. Hartshorn with two Companies were sent to the mouth of the Muskingum to build Ft. Harmer in the fall of 1785. Three Companies (one of which I belonged) built Ft. McIntosh at the mouth of Big Beaver & wintered there.”—The remainder of this narrative is in the possession of the author of this book.

JABEZ MUNSELL<sup>4</sup>.

Died on Wednesday, of the prevailing cholera after an illness of a few hours, the Rev. Jabez Munsell, of the Presbyterian Church aged 60 years. He had resided with us for two years as teacher of a female school, was eminently useful and highly respected, an example of “whatsoever is excellent and of good report.” With a sound understanding and a good education, he combined excellencies of heart and a scriptural piety, which rendered his conversation and example pleasant and instructive, his death has produced more than ordinary sensation, and is deeply lamented; most tenderly does the whole community sympathize with his lovely family, in his sudden and unexpected departure by which a wife has been deprived of an affectionate husband and his children of a kind and useful father; he retained his reason to the last and submitted to the will of God with Christian patience and resignation and yielded his wife and children to Him who has promised to be the “God of the widow and the Father of the fatherless ones.”—From Norfolk Herald Aug 3d, 1832.

LEVI MUNSELL<sup>5</sup>.

When eight years old he removed from the Shaker settlement at Enfield Connecticut where his father had taken him and came to Torrington, Connecticut to live with Junius North.

He resided many years on the farm of his father-in-law in Newfield Connecticut. He was a hardworking good citizen, an earnest devoted Methodist, a class leader and chorister. He was a justice of the peace, a representative two years and was elected the third time but being taken suddenly ill died and was buried the day the legislature convened. He attained the military rank of captain.

LUKE MUNSELL<sup>5</sup>.

He received an academic education and started October 9th 1811 for Frankfort Kentucky where he arrived November 30th 1811 and was engaged in the Kentucky seminary until August 29th 1814. He was then engaged in a survey of the State of Kentucky and in 1818 published a large map of that State on his own account which proved to be an unfortunate enterprise involving a very large loss. In 1836 he removed to Indianapolis Indiana and began the practice of medicine having for some years previously been professor of chemistry and natural philosophy in Danville College Kentucky. While a resident of Indianapolis Indiana he drew up a map of that city which was published. He also constructed sun dials adapted to the latitudes and longitudes of several places where he resided of which very few copies were cast as presents to esteemed friends. In 1852 he removed to Jeffersonville Indiana. He possessed a high order of talent, was of an investigating turn of mind and became one of the most scientific men of the State. He was an eminent proficient in mathematics and natural philosophy and an accomplished Greek and Latin scholar. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and so much opposed to the institution of slavery as to lead to his removal from the State of his adoption to one where it was wholly discountenanced. He died of heart disease after seven months severe suffering at Jeffersonville Indiana June 18th 1854 aged 64 years and was interred at Frankfort Kentucky.

HEZEKIAH MUNSELL<sup>5</sup>.

He was not only a well read and shrewd lawyer, but a classical scholar, and taught his children plenty of Greek and Latin. He was also a politician of the Jeffersonian school, at a time when politics ran high, and numerous anecdotes are told of his pleasantries. At a 4th of July dinner he gave the following toast: "Federalists—May they hang by the rim of the moon with their fingers greased." In the transformation of parties, he afterwards, singularly enough, found himself acting with his old antagonists, the federalists, without being fully satisfied with the position he had fallen into by following some file leader. He was some time justice of the peace at Hoosick, which is believed to have been the only public office he ever accepted. Was a postmaster and vice chancellor of the court, author of a small work entitled a Manual of English Grammar.

JOEL MUNSELL<sup>o</sup>.

A sketch of his life by George R. Howell appeared in the July number of the New England Genealogical Register. A shorter sketch by John J. Latting appeared in the April number of the New York Biographical Record. See also History of Northfield Mass.

STEPHEN D. MUNSELL<sup>o</sup>.

Mr. Stephen D. Munsell, who died in Dorchester, last Saturday morning, lived in Hingham about two years; but as he was a confirmed invalid, he was not so well known here as on account of his genial disposition and intelligence, he otherwise would have been. Mr. Munsell for many years had the entire charge of all the freight which passed over the Isthmus, and was stationed most of the time at Panama, where he doubtless contracted the disease—consumption, of which he died. Although a great sufferer, and though he knew that he could never recover his health nor attend to any business again, he was always patient, cheerful and resigned. He leaves a wife and daughter, who, while they will mourn the loss of kind and devoted husband and father, must feel that death came to him as a blessing, and that he was prepared and willing to die. His remains were brought here for interment, he having very recently purchased a lot in the Hingham Cemetery.

Mr. Munsell became a Mason while in Panama, and as he expressed the wish, while residing here, that his funeral should be attended by the Old Colony Lodge, he was buried by them with Masonic honors last Monday afternoon, services having been held at eleven o'clock, at his late residence, in Dorchester.—Newspaper
